Industrial Washers

The first quarter of 2017 has proven to be productive for everyone involved at BSM. As we continue to work on our industrial washer project, the completed machines have been tested and approved by the customer. A portion of the order was packaged and shipped to the customer. The above machines use high pressure water to clean industrial parts such as rotors, motors and cylinders. The machine below is also an industrial washer that uses high pressure water to clean shafts. The attached conveyors load the shafts into the machine and move it through the cleaning process then to the finishing conveyor. We have a few more machines to complete and have ready for shipping in a few weeks.

Custom railings

We were able to fabricate and install railings at the Cattaraugus County Stone house in Machias during a mild winter week. The end result was beautiful but the job was time consuming. They consisted of six sections and a total of 76 center balusters made from  $\frac{3}{4}$ " square stock. Each piece was individually cut, welded, blended and then added to the top and bottom railing. Each piece was polished to perfection, primed, painted, and installed. They may look like typical railings but they are definitely one of a kind.

Stainless Steel Projects

Working with stainless steel can be a finicky process. The material can be delicate to work with, it takes a special talent to weld and one scratch ruins the whole piece. Our experienced staff has worked on various stainless steel projects in the last few months. To the right (top) are crumbs pans that attached to conveyors to catch over flow of bread crumbs. The railings were fabricated using stainless steel pipe, fittings and flat bar; they were installed by a local contractor in the Friendship area. The remaining two pieces were fabricated for the stainless steel industrial parts washer; one is a door frame and the other is a water holding tank.

Certified Welders

Our office staff has been in the steel fabrication business for 40 years; and BSM just celebrated 27 years in business! Our fabrication team is certified in Flux Core, Pressure Vessel, and SMAW with a combined over 15 years' experience. Add our Professional Engineered (P.E.) stamped drawings and the latest in 3D CAD design, BSM is your one stop shop for all your fabrication needs.
